HOOVER HIGH SCHOOL
605 FAIR OAKS
NORTH CANTON, OHIO

Hoover High School has expanded their facilities with the addition of the North Campus. At Hoover there are many directions in which a student can channel his initiative. It can be towards Math, Science, English, the Arts, or any of the new vocational courses. Between the North and South Campuses there is virtually no limit to what a student at Hoover can accomplish.

Competition is also an important part of the activities at Hoover. In nearly every faction of Hoover life some type of competition is involved. The band members, the swim team, the football team, even a student competes with himself to get the best grade possible. Hoover gives its students many contests to participate in such as the door decorating contest preceding the Louisville game. Most students enjoy getting involved with the competition at Hoover.

Friends are a very important part of a student's life at Hoover. Whether it be a casual meeting of two people in the halls, the ties developed between the players on a team or the special relationship between a guy and a girl, they are all special because they provide a person with companionship and love.

Senior attendant Melissa Guthridge is escorted by Mike Totten.

Jeff Sabella and his date enjoy the homecoming dance with the other Hoover students who also attended the fall homecoming. This year's homecoming turned out to be a tremendous success.

The Vikings cheer their teammates on to a 42-8 victory against Cleveland John Marshall.

Last year's fall homecoming queen Ginnie Valerie returned to this year's game to crown the new queen, Gigi Davis. Gigi will reign for the 1976-77 school year and will come back next year to crown the 1977-78 homecoming queen.

Homecoming queen, Gigi Davis, and her attendants: Melissa Guthridge, Liese Brown, and Holli Bose make lovely royalty for 1976-77.

Homecoming Theme Reflects Tropical Paradise

The Fall Homecoming was a virtual paradise as the name implied. It came complete with hula girls, palm trees and coconuts. The game night was pleasant, and Hoover won 47-8 over Cleveland John Marshall. The dance was a perfect ending to a fantastic weekend. Nobody was upset with the way this weekend ended.

Gigi Davis accepts the post of homecoming queen.

Terri Johnson, Kerry Mattocks, and Kate Arnold went to Girls' State from Hoover this year.

Eric Cornish, and Kevin Krigline were elected to go to Boys' State by Hoover this year.

This year's exchange students are: Josie Javelona, Arturo Novello, Riikka Jaakkola, Noeline Francis, Jorge Guerrero, and Laura Pacheco.

The newspaper editors this year are: Val Ewing, Mary Oby, Richard Smith, and Janet Young.

Hoover High School's Cheerleaders were first at Grand National Cheerleading Competition.

Many Students From Hoover Take Awards

This year, as always, Hoover High School was very proud of its students. It takes intelligence along with skill and initiative to accomplish what these students have. This year we have six exchange students and our cheerleaders are number one in the country. These students have a particularly hard job as they must keep up with their work as well as these activities.

The Nar'l Honor Society officers for 1976-77 are: pres. — D. Hartmann, sec. — K. Seitz, v.-pres. — D. Buffo.

Choir Excellent Under C. Kidders

The 1976-77 A Capella choir was directed by Mr. Kidder. Together Mr. Kidder and the choir worked on getting their voices into shape for competitions. Mr. Kidder took the choir to competitions and they came back, as expected, with excellent ratings.

The accompanist plays each section's part of a new song to help them with their harmony.

Robin Rousch is one of the students who accompany the acappella choir.

The tenor section listens while Mr. Kidder explains the intricacies of a new piece.

The basses practice their parts to reach the perfection expected of them.

Johnson, B. Haas, K. Seitz, K. Paulson. (center) A. Preston, P. Rousch (Rob Hill was not present).

The A'capella Choir for 1976-77 school year consists of the juniors and seniors at Hoover High that like to sing and are willing to work to achieve the sound that they want. Mr. Kidder works continuously with the choir to get the polished quality that brings back superior ratings from competition.

The drum corps adds excitement to the show with their numbers.

The flags add a flash of color to the field at half time.

Each member of the band works hard to remember the formations.

This year the Hoover majorettes' head twirler is Cindy Spotleson.

Hoover's Band Marches In Corps Style

The 1976-77 Hoover High School Marching Band impressed the crowds with their corps style marching. The routines designed by Mr. McCleaster take a lot of practice to get them ready for performance. The band's routines make for a very entertaining half time show.

The Hoover High School Marching Band has many formations, such as this one, that they use in their numerous band shows. Mr. McCleaster and the band work hard to get the symmetry of these formations entertaining as well as artistic looking on the field.

Crowds Applaud Band's Hard Work

For the first time, Hoover High's Marching Band held a Marching Band Festival in which bands from all over this area performed. Members of the band worked very hard in preparation for the Hoover Festival and the others they competed in. The band traveled to Dover's, Taslaws, and Copley's Band Shows. They also marched in the Louisville Constitution Day Parade and competed in the marching contest in which they won the first place honors and $300. All in all, the band had a great season. They received many standing ovations from the crowds at football games — especially the home crowds at away games. The drums had a feature solo which was extremely popular and enjoyed by everyone. The band's application to a Marching Contest in Toronto, Canada was accepted. Bands from all over the United States and Canada were able to compete. The band also had the honor of performing a half-time show for the fans of the Cleveland Cavaliers and the Coliseum in Richfield, Ohio. Also, Hoover's band was the lead band at the Akron/Canton Airport during President Ford's campaign stop.

The 1976-1977 Hoover High School Band officers are all seniors. They are: Robin Roush, vice president; Kim White, secretary; Bill Hamilton, president; Jeff Monter, publicity chairman; Allyson Stebel, treasurer.

The 1976-1977 North Canton Hoover High School Stage Band personnel are: Alto Saxophones: Mark Vinci, Katy Powell; Tenor Saxophones: Sharon Marrell, Kevin Krigline; Baritone Saxophone: Allyson Stebel; Trumpets: Jay Halpin, Bill Hamilton, Jim Phillips, Kevin Zum-kehr, David West; Trombones: Keith Dittmar, Gene Ransom, Mike Krigline, Suketu Mehta; Piano: April Preston, Debbie Sabella; Electric Bass: Roger Towner; Drums: Matt Wagner, Craig Reikowsky, Tim Ceteras.

Mr. Robert McCleaster, Director of all the bands at Hoover, converses about an upcoming band performance with Mr. Doug Prother, the Assistant Band Director.

Soon after the closing of the marching season, Hoover's Stage Band I, the Flag-Drill Team, and the Rifle Unit traveled to the Richfield, Ohio Coliseum, home of the Cleveland Cavaliers, to present a half-time show for the Cav's fans.

The 1976-1977 Hoover Stage Band II personnel are: Alto Saxophones: Kim White, Barbara Blohm; Tenor Saxophones: Jeff Monter, Terry Resler; Baritone Saxophone: Tom Zirps; Trumpets: Tim Gissiner, Cathy Nist, John

Niffenegger, John Queen, Kevin Wallick, Neil Gerren; Trombones: Gary Kirkpatrick, Tom Murphy, Fred Geib; Piano: David Nolte, Debbie Sabella; Electric Bass: Rick Wood; Drums: Dan Medal, Mark Schario.

These selected musicians from the 1976 Marching Band form the sixty-six member Symphonic Band. Under the direction of Mr. Robert McCleaster, the band presents public concerts.

The 1977 Concert Band is made up of fifty musicians from the Marching Band. Also directed by Mr.

McCleaster, this band performs at two school concerts.

76-77 Season; A Big Success In Choir

A'Cappella Choir consists of juniors and seniors under the direction of Mr. Charles Kidder. The choir performed at Thanksgiving Assembly, a Christmas Concert, at the dedication of the Hoover Hall of Performing Arts at the North Campus, and Spring Sing. Also, A'Cappella staged the musical production, "Oliver." Other groups in the music department are Hi-Lows, Girl's Glee Club and Sophomore Mixed Choir. At the Christmas Assembly, the Girls' Glee Club delighted the students with many selections.

These girls contribute to the excellent performances of the choir.

The Girl's Glee Club consists of 55 girls. They participate in the winter and spring concerts. The combination of sophomores, juniors, and seniors makes this a total school effort of underclassmen and upperclassmen blending their voices together in song. Their spirit inspires all audiences for whom they sing.

Hoover High School sophomores display their vocal talent in the Sophomore Mixed Choir. The sophomores meet in the choir room every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday during fourth period.

The Girl's Glee Club officers, for 1976-1977 season, are: Cheryl Aman — president, Lisa Bose — vice president, and Connie Schocksnider — secretary. They are a great help to the choir.

The Sophomore Mixed officers for this year are: president — Mark Tobias, vice president — John Niffeneger, (absent) secretary — Jim Phillips, and accompanist — Kathy Scheffler.

1976 Prom: A Night Of Excitement

Elegance and beauty were filling the air while excitement and romance filled the gymnasium floor. The theme from last year's prom was "Discover America." The past and present were all conceived into one evening filled with fun and enchantment. It was a prom to be remembered by those who took part in the preparation and by those who attended it, as a successful venture.

The junior and senior class enjoy the slow music by Bob Hill and the Hilltoppers, while dancing with their dates throughout the night. Entertainment was also provided by the impersonator, Gary Kimbel.

Mark Weigel, vice president of the junior class, crowns our 1976 Prom Queen Pru Waltenbaugh. Everybody participating in the prom waits patiently to congratulate her. Happiness is on everybody's face showing appreciation.

Pru Waltenbaugh, this year's prom queen, smiles as she displays the proudness of her reign.

senior attendants Pam Morath and Robin Sheperd; junior attendants Lee Chesterfield and Cheryl Hudak. These girls were good representations for Hoover's 1976 Prom.

Don Denhan, a senior, gets ready to take a picture of the scenery with a posing couple in the background. Those attending last year's Prom had an enjoyable and memorable time with the Discover America theme.

Tom Q. waits for his date, Jamie P., as she signs in the guest book. Lynn L. is in charge of the guest book.

Hoover Varsity Cheerleaders

The Varsity and Reserve Cheerleaders are something for Hoover High School students to be proud of. Through the year the cheerleaders attend many competitions and invariably come back with top honors. For the second year in a row the Hoover cheerleaders came home with the first place trophy. The greatest honor came this year when the Hoover cheerleaders brought back the "Best in the Nation" trophy from the Grand National competition in Michigan.

The 1976 Band Prom Queen is Alison Strebel and King Keith Ditmar. Last year's King Ed Whitman and Queen

Ann Bethel had returned. The senior attendants are Janice Holliday and escort Mat Korosi; junior attendants

Cathy Howes and escort Jay Halpin; sophomore attendants Vicki Hirt and escort John Niffenegger.

Cheryl Aman and Dan Bilkert are among the many couples that are enjoying the music of the band. The work of many band students and the directors proved to be very rewarding as the Band Prom was a big success.

Many sophomores are enjoying the Basketball Dance by doing the Monorail. This dance, and other line dances,

Sophomores Lynn Santomen, Diane Stuckey, Shelly Robey, and Debbie Sabella are enjoying the music of Bob

Hill and the Hilltoppers at the 1976 Band Prom. Everyone attending enjoyed the music and decorations.

1976-1977 Dances Bring Big Success

This year's Basketball Dances and Band Prom were very enjoyable for all who went. The Band Prom was held right after the football season, and a theme of Winter Switzerland was used. The gym was decorated by all the band students, and the snow covered mountains and silver stars turned out beautifully. The students seemed to enjoy slow dancing to the music of Bob Hill and the Hilltoppers. For the first time this year a dance was held after each home basketball game. Many students attended and danced to the records played by different disc jockeys each week.

Our 1976 Track Queen was Debbie Ennis and attendants, Sophomore Colleen Hawkins and Junior Bonnie Hartzell. They wait patiently to be crowned at the track meet in North Canton Memorial Stadium.

are very popular here. These people learn them by seeking help from others that already know them.

Winter Royalty Reign At Dance

Because of bad weather and school closings, the 1977 Winter Homecoming was cancelled. The queens were selected, however. The queens for the Winter sports were: Basketball queen, Junior Colleen Hawkins; Wrestling queen, Senior Bea Smithley; and Swimming queen, Junior Sue Hill. They were crowned between the reserve and varsity competition at the last basketball game.

Chris Coughlin — Historian, Kevin Dolvin — Treasurer, and Vicki Hirt — Secretary.

Student Council officers are: Dave Buffo (Pres.), Gigi Davis (V. Pres.), Katie Arnold (Sec.), and Janet Moon (Treas.).

Tom Dickerson — President, Jim Sankey — Vice-President, April Preston — Treasurer, Janet Cullen — Historian, and Cindy Ebinger — Secretary. These are the Junior class officers.

Senior, Bee Smithley, was elected by the students as the 1976-77 Hoover High School wrestling team queen.

Colleen Hawkins, a junior, was chosen as the 1976-77 Basketball queen by the students at Hoover.

The 1976-77 swimming queen was Junior Sue Hill. She has always been a loyal swimming fan and was a swimmer herself.

Vice-President, Lori Mansfield — Secretary, and Tim Betz — Treasurer.

Assemblies and Pep-Rallies A Success In '76

Assemblies and pep-rallies provide zest and entertainment to the sometimes mundane atmosphere of school. They also provide a means for students to display their talents, and their acting abilities. Along with their weird props, strange costumes, tights, and lots of make-up, we've had everything from toys and elves, to seven lords a leaping. All these strange creatures, alias Hoover students, deserve much recognition for it's those students that make the assemblies and pep-rallies what they are. Though we've had fun this year, the ones we've had were well planned and response was good.

During the Christmas Assembly, the Hi-Lows sang and acted out "A Partridge in a Pear Tree." Rob Hill had the part of "seven lords a leaping." While Rob was busy with his part, the others did theirs and sang.

The Fonz bunny (Marty Martion) gives advice to the other bunnies during the Easter Assembly.

The Girls' Glee Club sing during the Christmas Assembly, while in Santa's Workshop. The girls are dressed as toys. They played a big role in this by singing several songs throughout the beginning of the assembly.

The senior girls, during a football pep-rally, imitate the senior players of the football team. Imitating the players, the girls attentively listen to their head coach, Don Hertler. Portraying the part of the coach is Jenny Chasin. A lot of private jokes were revealed by these girls playing as the guys.

As the Thanksgiving Assembly closes, Dave Foster, the ghost of the future, and the entire cast wish everyone a very Happy Thanksgiving. This was presented by members of the student council.

For the enthusiasm of the football games, artists draw and display posters throughout the school.

Drama And Musical Provide Entertainment

The musical, "Fiorello," and the drama "Here and Now," brought out a lot of hidden acting talents. Students from all high school grades tried out and performed in each one. "Here and Now" was a modern day drama directed under Mrs. Marquardt. "Fiorello," the annual musical, had every scene in it from poker games to workers singing outside their factories. Both were shown for students and adults nightly in the gymnasium.

In the gym, students are practicing for the play "Here and Now." Under the direction of Mrs. Marquardt, every year a drama is performed. Students trying out for different parts are met with the challenge of getting a part as

Displaying their acting abilities are Jeff Casner, senior, and Jeff Seibert in the musical "Fiorello."

The Nifty Shirt Waist Company strikers cheer on Fiorello Laquardia (played by Andy Moock) as he promises to get better conditions for the workers. "Fiorello" is a story of a New York City Mayor.

well as performing it. The play is rewarding for both actors and audience.

Doug Myers, Steve Cope, Randy Tobias, Tim Kidder, John Elselder, and Doug Davidson were the not so legitimate campaign managers of Fiorello who were known for their constant poker playing.

In honor of Fiorello, his friends gather to bid him farewell as he departs off to war. As he leaves, the song "Till Tomorrow" is sung by the chorus. The band also played a major role in accompanying the chorus in this production. "Fiorello" was the last musical to be presented in the South Campus auditorium.

New Auditorium And Hoover Talent Make Successful Play

"Oliver" was the first full stage production ever put on in the Hoover Hall of Performing Arts. The set design, staging and technical work kept in mind the "showing off" of the new theatre's capabilities. The entire play was a group effort including the teachers and students of Hoover and surrounding grade schools. Various teachers contributed to different aspects of the production ranging from make-up to music to directing. The newly formed group Semanon, led by Thom Brockett was in charge of sound, lighting, and any other technical duties. The Vocational students were included in the building of the sets and many grade school boys were used for the many orphans in the chorus. So altogether the whole musical incorporated all aspects of Hoover life.

Nancy, played by Susan Lukens, is with everyone in the Thieves' Kitchen while they all sing "Oom-Pah-Pah."

The young boy thieves stare at her with great interest because of her beauty.

Bet, played by Robyn Swingly, imitates Nancy while they sing to the thieves.

Mr. Campfield is helping Randy Tobias with his make-up with his role of Mr. Bumble. He has the job of running an orphanage which he did well. Mr. Bumble was a man with the capability of losing his temper.

Bill Sykes, known as Dan Bilkert, waits patiently while Karen Petrack puts on his make-up.

While Oliver comes out of the house, townspeople are out on the street selling goods. Oliver is on his way to return some books that were borrowed by his grandfather, Mr. Brownlow, who is played by Kevin Krigline.

Fagin, better known as Tim Kidder, puts on his make-up for a dress rehearsal.

Townspeople sing "Consider Yourself" with the Artful Dodger (Mark Tobias) and Oliver (Stephen Vandegrift).

They are singing this to introduce Oliver to the life of the undertakers.

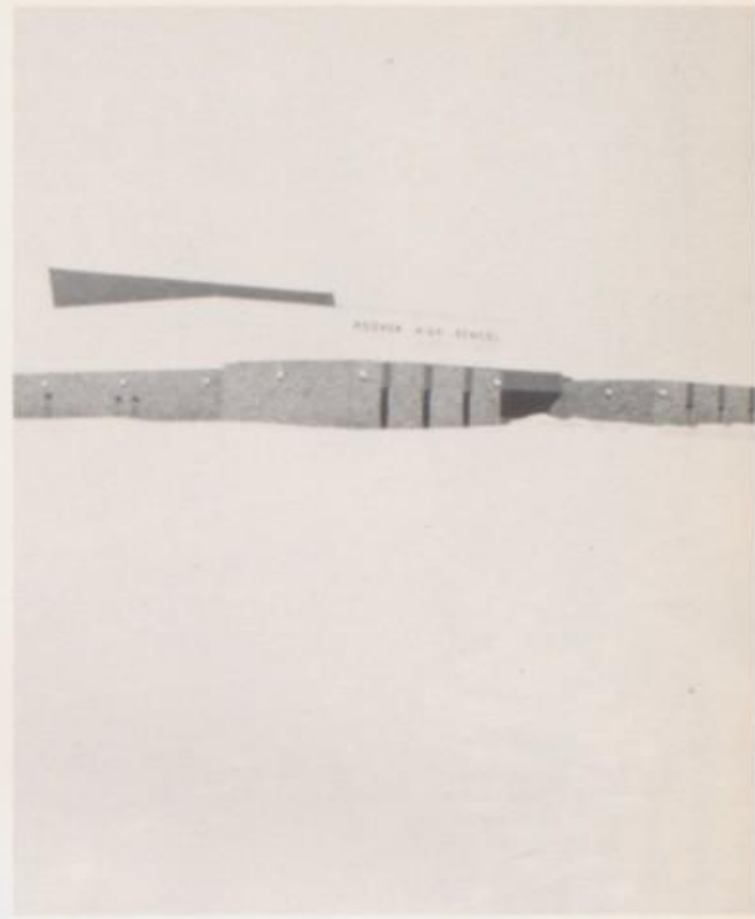

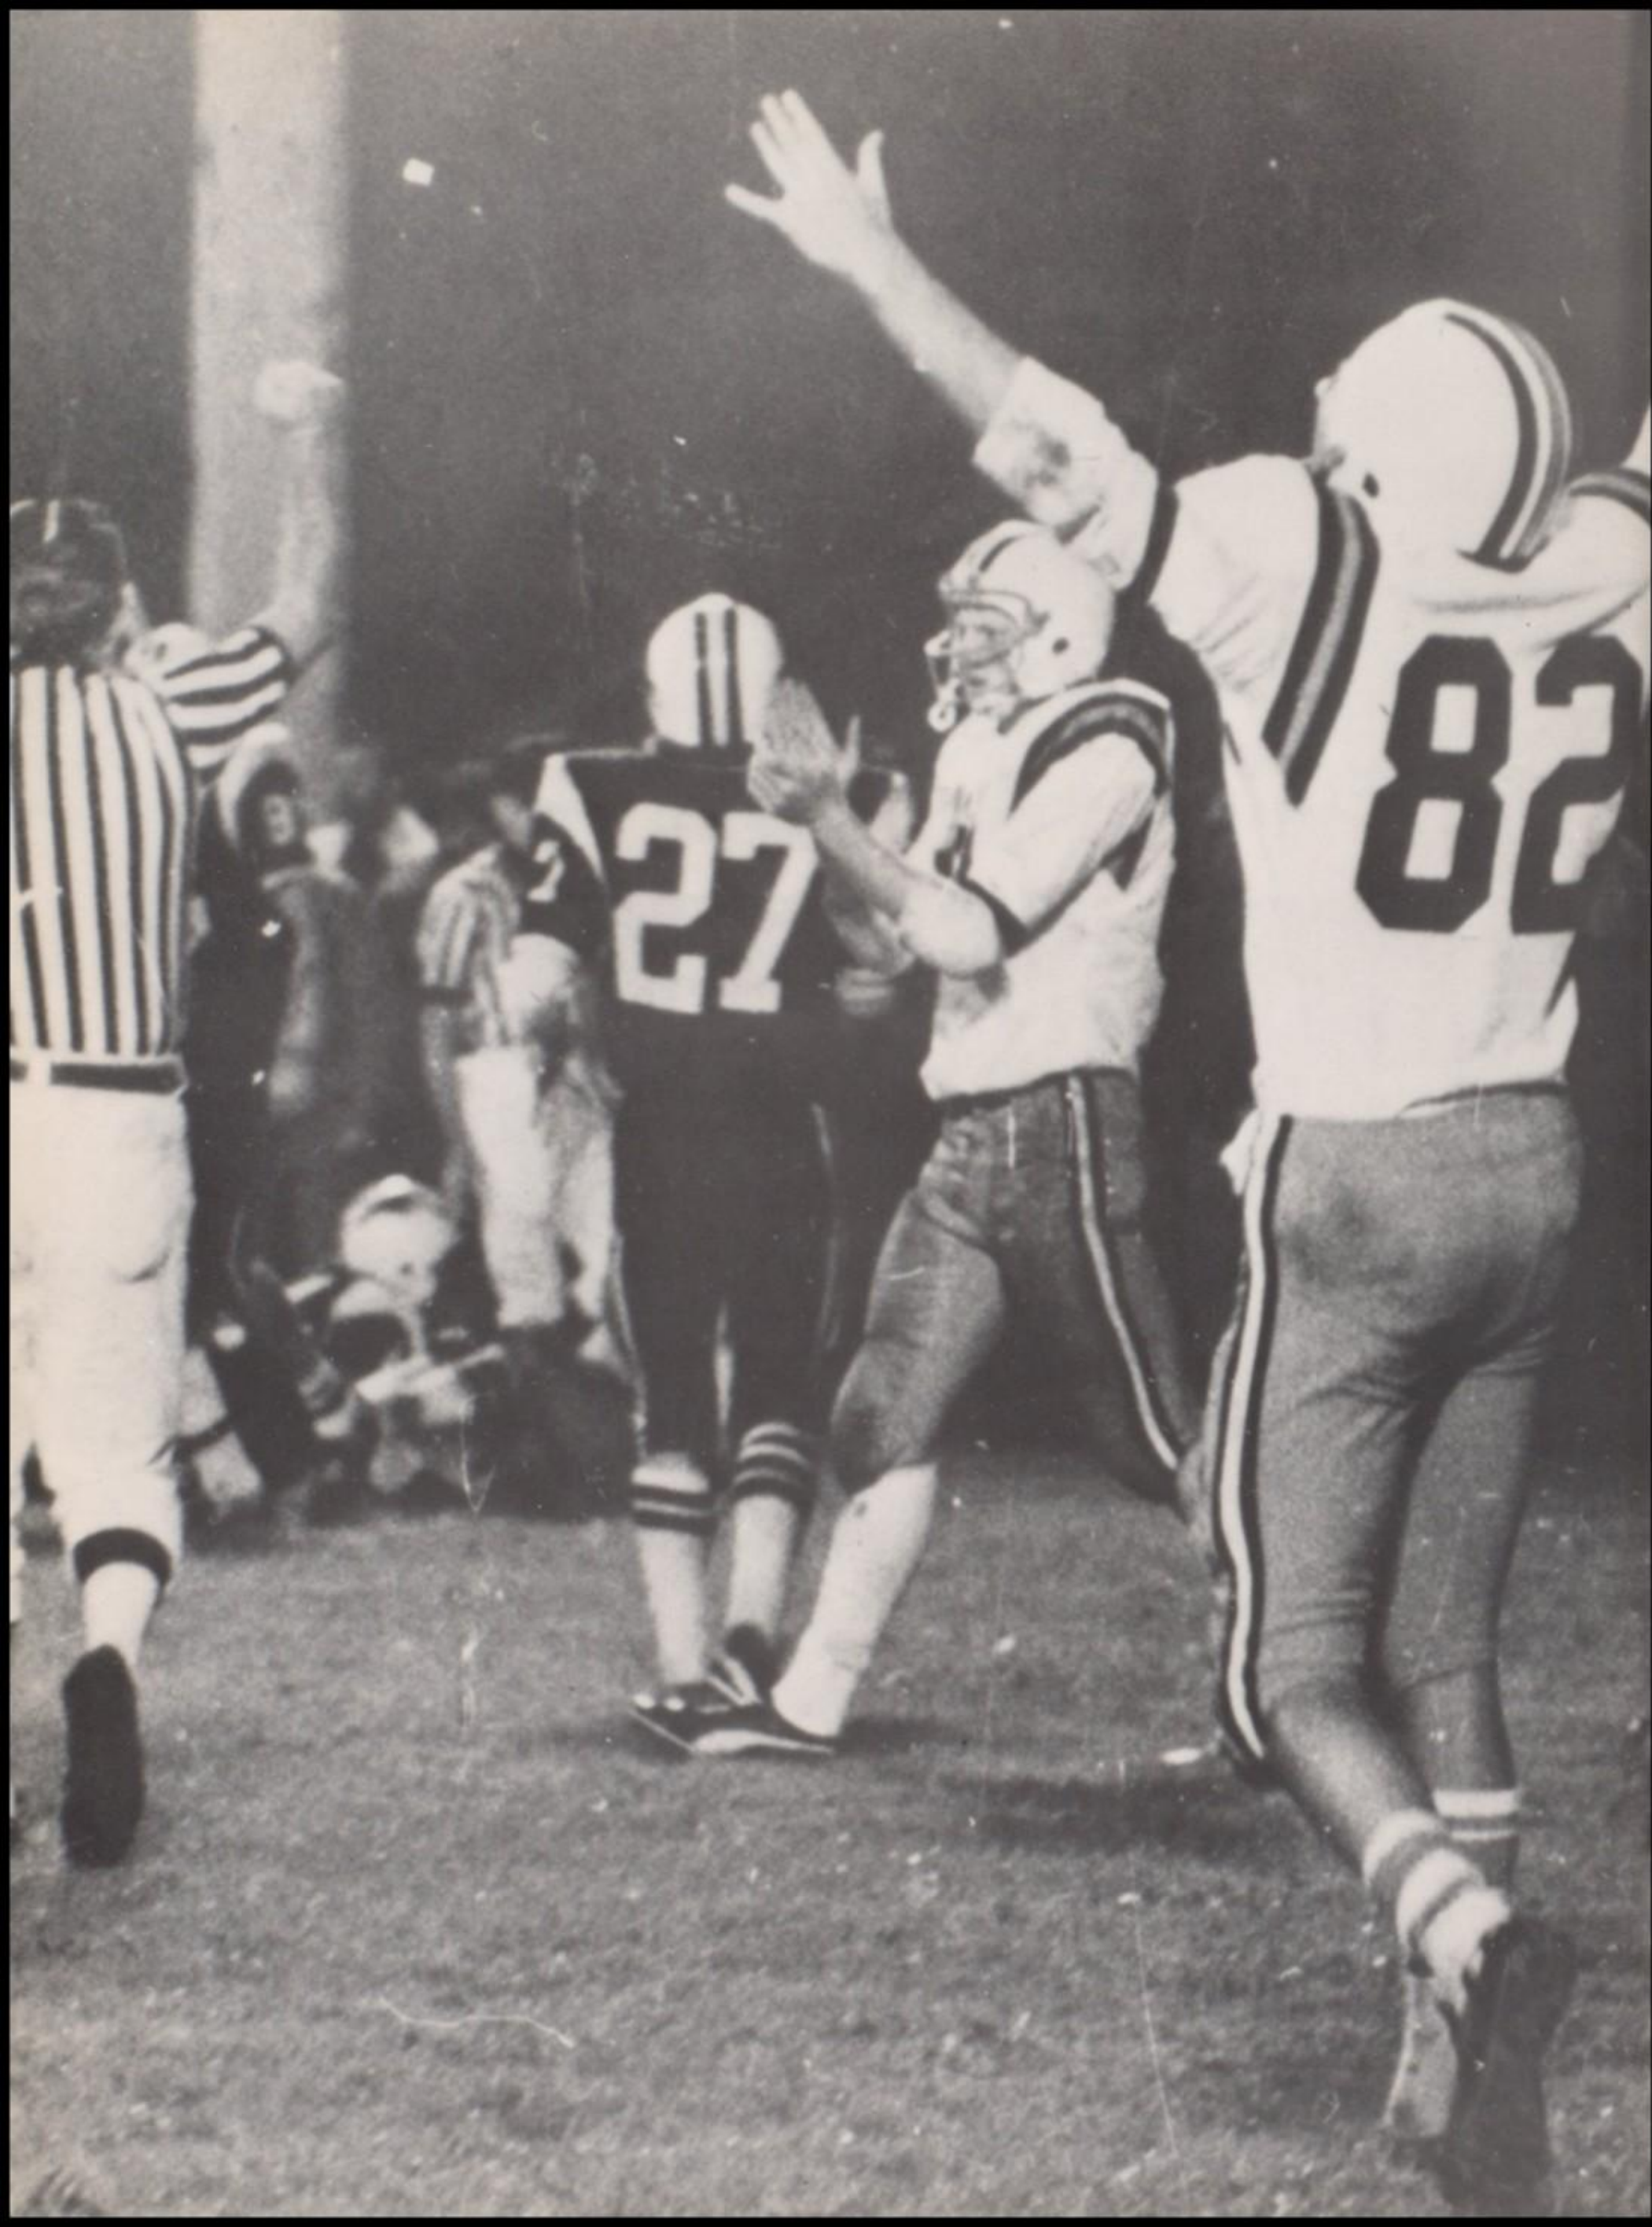

Winter of 1976 Memorable One

The worst winter in the last 100 years, that's how people are referring to the winter of 1976-77. For the first time in many years we used all of the snow days allocated to us by the state. Not only were we greatly affected by the snow, but the accompanying record low temperatures also caused their share of problems. The gas shortage and school closings kept students and faculty wondering about the possibility of an unexpected winter vacation.

As difficult as the weather made the operation of schools and businesses, the drifting snow turned the northeastern Ohio landscape into an almost magical appearing winter wonderland.

The Viking offensive line struggles to protect the field goal attempt by Senior guard Mike Totten, number 58.

Holding the ball is Senior Mickey Jorden, the Viking's quarterback. Mike Totten and Mickey Jorden (number

While the reserves take over and finish the game, Seniors Dan Shetler, Rick Pottmann, Phil Sisler, Brent Winslow, and Tom Conrad gather on the bench to relax.

The referee signals a touchdown which was made on a quarterback sneak by Quarterback Jim Halley, a senior.

Jim gives a shout of joy as he jogs towards the sidelines to watch the extra point kick.

Senior running back, Tom Conrad, plunges through the line hoping to get long yardage and a first down, but is stopped short by the Cleveland John Marshall linebackers. The game ended with a Viking victory.

Awarded 1976 Federal League Championship Title

The 1976 Varsity Football team, under Mr. Don Hertler's coaching, captured the Federal League title for the fifth time since they came into the league in 1968. The Viking's overall record was 9-1 with their only defeat coming in the last game. The co-captains were Bob Armstrong and Dan Shetler. The six Vikings who made the All-Federal League team were Dan Shetler, Bob Armstrong, Mickey Jordan, Tom Conrad, Doug Chufar, and Bret Lukens. Dan Shetler was named the Most Valuable Player of Stark Country and Coach Hertler received the Coach of the Year Award. Dan Shetler, Jeff Logan, and Dick Snyder were the only Vikings ever to receive the distinguished M.V.P. award.

Seniors Joe Skemp, Matt Korosi, and Dan Shetler watch carefully the positions of the offensive team and can "read" the play. Then they will end the hopes of a long offensive drive and a touchdown.

Victorious Reserves Look Forward To Varsity Years

The 1976 Reserve football team ended their season with an excellent overall record of 8-1. They were undefeated in seven straight games with their only defeat coming near the end of their season. The team was coached by Mr. Gross and Mr. Radich.

Cagers Show Much Potential

Although the 76-77 Boy's Varsity basketball team didn't capture the Federal League title, they had an exciting season. The over-all season record was 8-10 and the league record was 6-12. There were many close games and a few mistakes that caused the Vikings to come back stronger. Mr. Eddins' second year of coaching continued to reveal the potential of Hoover's basketball players.

Senior Mick Jordan jumps high to tip the basketball away from his Louisville opponent and to a Viking ball player.

Senior Dave Hartmann leaps from his surrounding Louisville ball players to pass the basketball to a fellow team member.

Viking players Scott Tannehill (junior — 20), Mick Jordan (senior — 30), and Dave Mathie (junior — 24) stand by anxiously awaiting a tip from Dave Hartmann and a Louisville team member during a jump ball. Teamwork aided the Vikings in many games.

Junior Scott Tannehill dribbles the ball down the court with the determination of scoring two more Viking points in a home game against Louisville. The anticipating cheers from the fans encourage the basketball team in their many games.

The fired-up team members huddle around Coach Eddins during a "time out" while Coach Parks and Coach Berro-din stand by.

As the Louisville Leopards shoot for another basket, Viking team members Dave Mathie and Dave Dutton attempt to block the shot. Dave Hartmann and Scott Tannehill stand back, ready and waiting for a possible rebound. The Leopards won by one point.

Dave Dutton, a senior and a third year basketball team member, prepares to pass the basketball to awaiting team members.

Senior Dave Hartmann (42) reaches high in an attempt to guard a shot at the basket from his Louisville opponent.

Team Members Shoot For High Goals

During a home game, the Viking team, consisting of seniors Jim Savage (32), Co-Captains Dave Hartmann (42), and Mickey Jordan (30), and junior Scott Tannehill (20), set up a Hoover basket for two points.

After a Viking score, Dave Mathie, a junior, defends the inbound of the basketball by his opponents.

Senior Jack Meola darts away from an opposing defender to set up a Viking shot.

The Viking team members warm-up by practicing their foul shots, lay-ups, set and hook shots, etc. Senior Dave Dutton (co-captain) and junior Mark Blair set up to shoot while the other Hoover players wait for a ball.

Blocking the attempted basket by an opponent from Green High School is co-captain and senior Dave Dutton. Another senior, Jeff Casner (54), is also there ready to help prevent the score.

Co-captain Dave Hartmann, a senior, stretches and jumps high trying to tip the basketball to one of his Viking teammates. Seniors Jeff Casner and co-captain Mickey Jordan are poised and ready to grab the ball.

Junior Dave Mathie concentrates on perfect form and one point as he shoots a foul shot.

ORGANIZATIONS

Enthusiasm For Paper Results In Success

Busy as always, the Journalism II students have been very enthusiastic and successful in turning out eight editions of the "Viking Views." The paper is produced by Hoover students to inform and entertain. Being a member of the newspaper staff is a very good experience for all students interested in writing, whether they have talent or not.

Editors for the "Viking View," Vall Ewing and Janet Young, discuss what changes can be done for the newspaper. The Editors are in charge of assigning stories and proofreading them when they are done.

Mrs. Scourfield, advisor of the newspaper, discusses with sports editors Mary Obey and Richie Smith. After the paper comes back, the staff looks for any mistakes they or the publisher might have made.

Unsuspecting at having their picture taken, Matt Korosi and Brent Winslow relax after Journalism II class. Writing takes a lot of energy.

Here the editors of all the sections get together to decide what pictures should go in the paper and exactly where they should be. After deciding, captions should then be written by the Journalism classes.

Claudia Le Blanc, exchange editor for the newspaper, smiles brightly for the camera. Claudia's job is to collect papers from other schools and send the Viking Views to other schools.

After working hard on a newspaper, Jeanne Tewksbury and Tammy Foster take time to read a new copy of the Viking Views. After working hard it's nice to read the final copy hopefully without a mistake.

The 1976-77 VIKING staff are advisor Miss Sue Manly, (l. to r.) Kelly Muntean, Judy Kelly, Tom Kamp, Mark Smith, Dave Burch, Jenny Chassin, Kathy Reynolds, Sharon Satterfield, Michelle Crislip, Lisa Gonyias, Jo Canterbury, Jeanne Tewksbury, Debbie Mohler. Not in picture are photographers Dave Hartmann and Paul Violand.

Jenny Chassin and Jeanne Tewksbury, sports editors, discuss exactly what pictures should be put in the particular layout. After this process then they must draw up a final outline and write captions.

New Advisor And Staff Make 52nd Edition

This year's VIKING has undergone several changes beginning with a new advisor, Miss Sue Manly, and new staff members. This yearbook will be Hoover High School's fifty second edition. Despite some setbacks with snow, cold weather, and delays, things worked out and the yearbook was well on its way. The theme of this year's book is "Vikings are . . ." The Editor of the 1976-77 VIKING was Mark Smith. Michelle Crislip was the editor of the Student Life section. Jenny Chassin and Jeanne Tewksbury were the co-editors of the Athletic section. Kelly Muntean and Kathy Reynolds were the co-editors of the Classes. Judy Kelly was the editor of the Organization section. Sharon Satterfield and Jo Canterbury were the co-editors for the Academics section. Tom Kamp and Dave Burch were the co-editors for the Faculty section. Kathy Reynolds managed the Advertising section, Lisa Gonyias was the Business Manager, and Debbie Mohler was photographer.

Dave Hartmann, a photographer for the yearbook, had to hang up his camera because of a knee injury.

Kelly Muntean works busily proofreading her final layout. This is a very important process which must be done accurately before turning the final copy in to Miss Manly who must look the layouts over before sending them to Taylor Publishing Company.

D.E.C.A. Wins District Trophy

Hoover High's section of D.E.C.A. has won the district trophy for the fourth time in a row. The competition was held at North Campus and 18 schools competed. The class is made up of 16 seniors and taught by Mr.

Vought. They have moved their class to the North Campus and have been busy getting their room together and fixing their display window. Eventually they will have their own store which they will run themselves.

Lyn Mieshik holds the 1977 District trophy for over all competition. This is the fourth year in a row that Hoover has won the competition.

Vicki Vukovich, Sherry Matthews, Lisa Herdlicka, and Jay Brothers stop to show off their 1st place trophies. It took a lot of hard work to win in the district competition. They are deserving of the honors.

D.E.C.A. members: (1. to r. 1st row) M. Williams, L. Mieshik, V. Vukovich, D. Marinucci, D. Marris. (2nd row) B. Haas, C. Hocking, J. Brothers, T. Hostetler, Craig Reikowsky. (3rd row) Mr. Vought, advisor, M. Dollard, S. Matthews, L. Herdlicka, L. Machamer, A. Hilty, V. Beal, D. Drukenbrod.

A very pretty Sherry Matthews shows her happiness as she walks off stage after accepting her first place award in public speaking. She competed at the districts held at the North Campus on February 9, 1977.

Mr. Vought speaks to the crowd of D.E.C.A. students before beginning the presentation of awards.

Class time for D.E.C.A. students has a relaxed atmosphere, yet the students must work hard. They study business and management and have a job, also, which goes with the course. The D.E.C.A. class arrived this fall to the new North Campus and a room facilitated especially for them.

Beth Haas accepts an award from James Walters, Southeast State Supervisor for Distributive Education. Beth also was a state runner up for Miss D.E.C.A.

FCA Adds To Athletic Events

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) was responsible for putting together the basketball programs and sold Hoover Viking cushions. They are planning a basketball game with FCA members against faculty members.

Mark Cerreta converses with Herb Holstein before the F.C.A. meeting begins.

the club installed an antenna on the top of the South Campus building, and has been able to use several pieces of radio equipment.

Serving as leaders for Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) are: (l. to r.) Dan Shetler — secretary, Mark Weigal — vice president, Jud Logan — president, and Dave Shields — treasurer. These officers are seniors and have all done a great job in helping Mr. Berrodin better organize FCA.

a major part of the Medical Arts Club. The group also went Christmas caroling at Windsor Nursing Home.

Shown here is Mrs. Hill, the Medical Arts Club advisor. She is also an American History teacher.

Vocational Clubs Add To Work Experience

The Vocational Clubs offer students an extra look at learning to get a job or getting a good insight in vocational careers.

Occupational Work Experience officers are for this year: (l. to r.) Nancy Basinger — vice president, Keely Mitchell — president, Sandra Cooksey — secretary. The club has members from the class of O.W.E. Being in the club gives the members a better look at the working world.

The Organization of Cooperative Office Education (C.O.E.) contains twenty senior girls. The class meets for two periods every day at North Campus. After school the girls have a job pertaining to secretarial work. Mrs. Linda Miller serves as teacher and advisor.

C.O.E. classes are now located at Hoover's North Campus. They have new facilities which include new typewriters and desks.

ACADEMICS

English Is An Interest To Students

Our English department has a varied amount of courses offered to all Hoover High students, ranging from 9-week courses to the full year program. Also included in English is journalism which puts out the school newspaper, VIKING VIEWS, and the annual staff which puts together the VIKING. Most Hoover students are enrolled in the 9-week program because of variety and future plans.

Mr. Campfield's bulletin board illustrates the popular course of Science Fiction. Students read popular science fiction novels and trace the origins and development of science fiction in literature and set guidelines as to what makes a good story.

Member of the yearbook staff is senior Jenny Chassin. Jenny is also co-editor of the sports section. As the deadline approaches, Jenny rapidly types her captions and copy onto the layout. Students become familiar with the production of The VIKING.

Members of the Journalism II class, senior Jeanne Tewksbury and junior Jo Canterbury type their assignments for the newspaper.

Fred Wurgler poses here with Mr. Brockett, speech teacher. Mr. Wurgler was a student teacher here from Akron University. Student teaching makes it possible for the good qualities of Hoover's teaching staff to be passed on to other schools.

Karen Santelle and Steve Evanko take time out to converse during speech class. Students gain experience in oral communication.

Students of Oriental class were both entertained and educated by guest speaker Kunio Tori, from Japan.

Enjoying a Japanese dinner which they prepared and served is Cathy Niffenegger and Steve Heckman. Preparing a dinner and serving it according to the cultural habits of the country is just one of the interesting assignments in Oriental Lit.

Classes Study Cultures

Learning different languages and customs of other countries has long been a part of the Hoover High curriculum. Language classes include Spanish, Latin, German, and French. Students at Hoover are proud of their foreign exchange program which entitles them to talk, listen, and learn first hand with students from other countries as well as those from here who experience living abroad for a year.

Learning about our own United States history and government is just as important also. One segment of history is the 9-week courses which include foreign affairs, American values, survey, and economics. This type of teaching makes it much more interesting and enjoyable. Government class teaches seniors principles of law.

Mrs. Ream speaks to her attentive German class about the culture and customs of Germany. In German, students become acquainted with grammar and vocabulary of the German language. Students do some work with German poetry and songs and relating material.

Second year Spanish students Kathy Herrington, Tony Herrick, and Laurie Gratny, all sophomores, gain extra help from Mrs. Schriever on their assignments. Spanish II deals mainly on the cultural aspects of both Spain and Spanish America, as well as the broadening of Spanish vocabulary.

Sophomore Cary Mellema takes time from his concentration to smile while junior Kathy Myers struggles to

Mr. Wechter's 7th period government class proves very rewarding for seniors Erick Cornish and Rhonda Biddlestone, but Valerie Ewing, also a senior, finds it more enjoyable to converse with the students who sit around her.

achieve the correct pronunciation of Spanish sounds. Lab helps students gain correct accents which is beneficial.

Mr. Goodpasture was the teacher advisor to Mr. Fligger who was performing graduate work from Akron University. Mr. Fligger is studying in the areas of American history and American values.

Senior Nancy Vandayburg enthusiastically engages in income tax study during Mr. Bates' second period gov't class.

Students Study Life And Matter

Hoover High School is proud of its science department. The department offers three subjects of science: biology, chemistry, and physics. Students work in labs and take notes in lecture to capture the most knowledge possible during the school year. Biology covers areas such as the chemistry of biological systems, cell and tissue biology, organic variations, microbiology and animal survey. Chemistry includes work with chemical reactions, solution chemistry and modern atomic theory. Physics or mathematical physics is for students who wish a background in science. Students work with kinetic theory, wave of motion, electricity, and atoms.

Senior Mary Oby and junior Amy Charleston, examine the principle of melting and freezing elements. During this process, a lot of readings and recordings are distributed. Chemistry is for students who will use science as a career.

Mr. Wiandt, biology teacher, dissects a frog to aid in the study of the organs of amphibians, which is beneficial to students.

Experimenting with Coulomb's Law (static electricity) in physics class are seniors Patty Roberts and Cathy Niffenegger.

Mr. Hobe, a chemistry teacher, lectures to his class. Students have lecture five days a week and separate lab sessions.

During the year, students perform various dissections in biology on organisms as small as the cricket and as large as the shark. The study of different body systems and internal organs is the purpose of this unit. The frog is one of the more interesting ones.

Sophomore Shari Swint, demonstrates no fear toward her little green friend. Biology offers students the study of invertebrate and vertebrate animal life, human biology, diseases, ecological relationships, and unique properties of life.

Courses Aid In Career Planning

Hoover's math department offers many interesting courses to students and introduces equipment to help with their studies, such as computers, compasses, and calculators. The home ec. department aids students in family management, child care, textiles, nutrition and food preparation, and home furnishings.

The students enrolled in business education at South Campus become quite skilled. Courses offered are typing, accounting, record-keeping, and shorthand. These subjects are beneficial to students, even in high school years. Shorthand and typing are recommended to those students interested in attending college.

Junior Mark Boylan struggles to solve an assigned problem in Algebra II. Students work complex number concepts and slide rules.

Mr. Coher, mathematics teacher, assists junior Roxanna Pacheco in Algebra II class with a difficult problem. This course is designed for students who are following a college preparatory course and proves to be very beneficial for any career chosen.

Juniors Jo Canterbury and Sharon Satterfield, geometry students, coordinate their skills together to bisect the given angle on the board. Geometry entails the study of Euclidean base geometry with strong emphasis on logical proof.

Sophomores Annette Altieri, Liz Kupka, Beth Pickles, and Pam Hanes are busy cooking up something good in Home Ec. II. Food Nutrition is just one of the offerings of study for sophomores. Home Ec. covers six units of homemaking.

Sophomore Carol Williams uses the adding machine to total her assets and liabilities in accounting class.

Sophomores Linda Domer, Kathy Allen, and Linda Coduto study pattern books in home economics class to decide what they would like to make for the development of skills in garment construction.

Senior Phil Sisler checks to see if his typing matches the book's material, as Mark Ceretta, a junior, works in the background.

Music Dept. Combines To Achieve Success

The music department of Hoover High School plays an important role in the student activities during the year. The choral department, directed by Mr. Charles Kidder, gives the students a chance to sing and perform for concerts and on stage. The band, under the director of Mr. Robert McCleaster, adds excitement and enthusiasm to all basketball games and football games as well as giving concerts. The orchestra directed by Miss Henson participates in many concerts throughout the year including the annual Christmas one. During the play "Oliver" members of both band and orchestra participated in accompanying the choir to help make the play a tremendous success.

Mr. Charles Kidder, the choir director at Hoover High School goes over the daily warm ups with the Sophomore mixed choir.

The Hoover Hi-Lows, a select singing group from the A'Cappella choir, practices under the direction of Mr.

Kidder. Many hours are spent in doing so to perform.

Junior Rick Riehm and seniors Bill Piltcher and John Elsfielder display their singing talent as they join the A'Cappella choir during fifth period.

Laura Mattachione, a senior at Hoover High School, practices a piece on the violin. Laura has been a member of the orchestra during all three years she has been at Hoover.

Senior Kevin Zumpher directs the Pep band during one of the basketball games. Each week a different student has a chance to do this.

The Hoover band practices seventh period each day to attain professional sounds during the busy school year.

Curriculum Aids Skills And Exercise

The phys. ed. program is designed to benefit the whole person. Activities are designed to help develop social skills, and good health and safety habits. The drivers ed. curriculum includes book work, simulator, and behind-the-wheel training. Art students study volume, space, color, texture, and shape. Advanced art classes work with sculpture and paintings.

Jorge Guerrero, Brian Hill, and Kerry Staley concentrate on the ball during a moving game of basketball in phys. ed. class. Some of the activities included in the boys' phys. ed. class are: football, soccer, tennis, basketball, softball, and tumbling.

Sophomore Barb Crile enjoys the freedom of "flying" on the trampoline during phys. ed.

Sophomores Keena Kandel and Tammi Willmore do some work on a routine on the balance beam. Activities in the girls' phys. ed. program include: speed-a-way, volleyball, bowling, modern and folk dances, and basketball.

Seniors Paula Jellel, Nancy Rhoter, and Tom Kamp discuss their art lesson in Mr. Palmer's art class. Art is for those students who have creativity and talent.

Vicki Fuchs, a junior, is in Mrs. Loucks' art class creating something of "art."

After driving through snow and slush, drivers education student Sandy Rich, a sophomore, prepares to return to the school.

Pam Swinchart and Scott Keppler, both juniors, who are enrolled in Drivers Education, get ready for their daily driving lesson.

Accounting and Computing classes are designed to help students in the data processing occupational fields. Students work with calculators and small computers, as junior Nancy Potts demonstrates. Many students are involved in this course and plan to continue in this field.

Junior Beth Himbaugh is busy typing her assignment in junior secretarial, a vocational program at the North Campus. Students in junior secretarial, are introduced to the basics of shorthand, business English, and advanced typing skills.

The setting of the office training room at the North Campus is a major factor that helps senior Rhonda Koons in her vocational training.

Senior Beaky Demos takes time from her hard work and concentrating to show us that she does have a minute to smile.

Melanie Smith, a junior, works with a small computer figuring the worth of a business in accounting and computing class. Students in accounting and computing work with office machines, data entry and programmable computing equipment.

Juniors Mary Hutcheson, Chris Evans and Denise Myles work diligently on their assignment in junior clerical. Classrooms for office training are set up like small offices. This enables students to learn techniques and skills in handling office work.

Office Training Aids Planning For Future

Hoover High School has a strong vocational program for development of office skills. Such programs as junior and senior secretarial and clerical, accounting and computing, and C.O.E. have been set up to train students in office techniques and skills, which enable students for easier job placement.

Senior Debbie Filhour looks up to smile. Debbie is a student in C.O.E. at the North Campus.

Courses Offer Important Job Experiences

The vocational program at North Campus has greatly expanded the courses in the Home Economics fields. Some of the new courses opened up to students at Hoover are: the food service program, and fabric service class. Other programs include the medical programs: D.H.O. and D.C.H.O. These are very beneficial to any student that wishes to enter a medical occupation.

Involved in the fabric service class is junior Cathy Browder. She smiles while using the sewing machine which has been taught along with fabric grain and texture.

Junior Tim Moore enjoys the convenience of the Food Service Program which serves hot foods prepared by students every day.

Mrs. Beatty, instructor of the fabric service class, explains the procedure in threading the embroidery machine to senior Lenore Paul who waits to use it.

Foods are prepared and baked by students in the kitchens of the North Campus. Senior Brenda Richie takes out of the oven a freshly baked pie which she has prepared. Students in this program learn to cook in quantity as well as with quality.

Juniors Fran Morgan and Wanda Morris, D.H.O. students, demonstrate the proper technique to administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. D.H.O. is designed to provide a background to enter one of many service occupations.

Senior Nancy Mayle, D.C.H.O. student, puts up a bulletin board on oral hygiene.

Juniors Lori Halter and Michelle Malone study the bones and their positions on this skeleton.

Juniors Mary Coomes and Mary Peters try to save on some dental bills by doing it themselves. Students in Diversified Health Occupation study dental hygiene along with many other areas of medical training.

Construction Proves Beneficial

The new vocational school, Hoover High School North Campus, has many courses to offer students. These courses are very beneficial and help students plan a career. One of those courses is building maintenance and remodeling. This course trains students in the construction field. Electricity is also a benefit to enroll in. Students learn the fundamental concepts of electricity and electronics and pick up the trade terminology needed for successful entry employment in electricity. Both courses have second year studies. In the latter part of the second year of each course, students are placed in jobs doing the type of work that they have trained for. Each student works under the supervision of a highly trained supervisor.

Juniors Randy Andrews and Brian Busey busy themselves, preparing materials for a project in Building, Maintenance, and Remodeling at the North Campus.

Students enrolled in this course receive basic instruction in carpentry, cabinet work, cement and block, plumbing, and electrical wiring.

Senior Bill Simms takes instruction and training in mechanical and electrical theory. The students in the small electrical items to work on with the tools of the shop.

class wire imitation house frames inside the classroom. They learn techniques to wire buildings of all types.

Three students from the building maintenance class at the North Campus check over their cartful of equipment to make sure they have all the tools that they need to do the tasks assigned to them for the upkeep of the school.

John McCoul works hard on repairing electrical lines in electricity class at the North Campus. This course is one of the many new vocational subjects offered and gives students an opportunity to become electricians.

Auto Classes Serve Community

Learning about the automobile and automotive repair is an important part of today's society since the auto is our most popular form of transportation. Students who take Auto Mechanics learn about the process of electrical systems, fuel systems, engines, brakes, and things of this sort. Students who learn about the body frame, windows, air conditioning, glass replacement and custom painting take Auto Body. Both of these classes give experience to students because it gives them the opportunity to actually work on cars both experimental and owned by members of the community. For a fee only for parts you can have your car repaired by Hoover students. This class is beneficial to students who take these courses as well as people in North Canton.

Senior Dan Lowe adjusts a part of an engine while in small engine class at the North Campus.

Mike Bann, a junior, smiles as he tests his auto mechanical skills while adjusting the engine on a car. He will then give the car a complete tune-up.

During Auto Mechanics class Kirk Manevol, junior, sprays a drying agent into the engine of a car in order to enable a quick starting procedure.

Sanding down a car is just part of the learning process in auto repair shop as junior Tim Feldman is demonstrating.

A student in auto repair shop is busy bolting a needed repair car.

Careers Begin With Hoover

Students, whether college-bound or not, can benefit from enrollment in Media Communications at the Hoover High, North Campus. Media provides students with procedures and concepts used in the business and fine arts fields. Students work with commercial arts areas, fashion-illustration, interior design, T.V. display and various areas of advertising.

Students enrolled in graphic arts, work with typesetting, layout, press work, camera work and plate making. Students enrolled in the second year course are placed in work stations under the supervision of highly trained workers.

Woodshop, offered at the South Campus, is a course which gives students some experience with design and craftsmanship. Students design and make their own projects.

Senior John Bacon concentrates on rust proofing these rims, in the small engines and recreational vehicle repair class.

course is very popular among sophomores. Students enrolled in the course, investigate possible career choices.

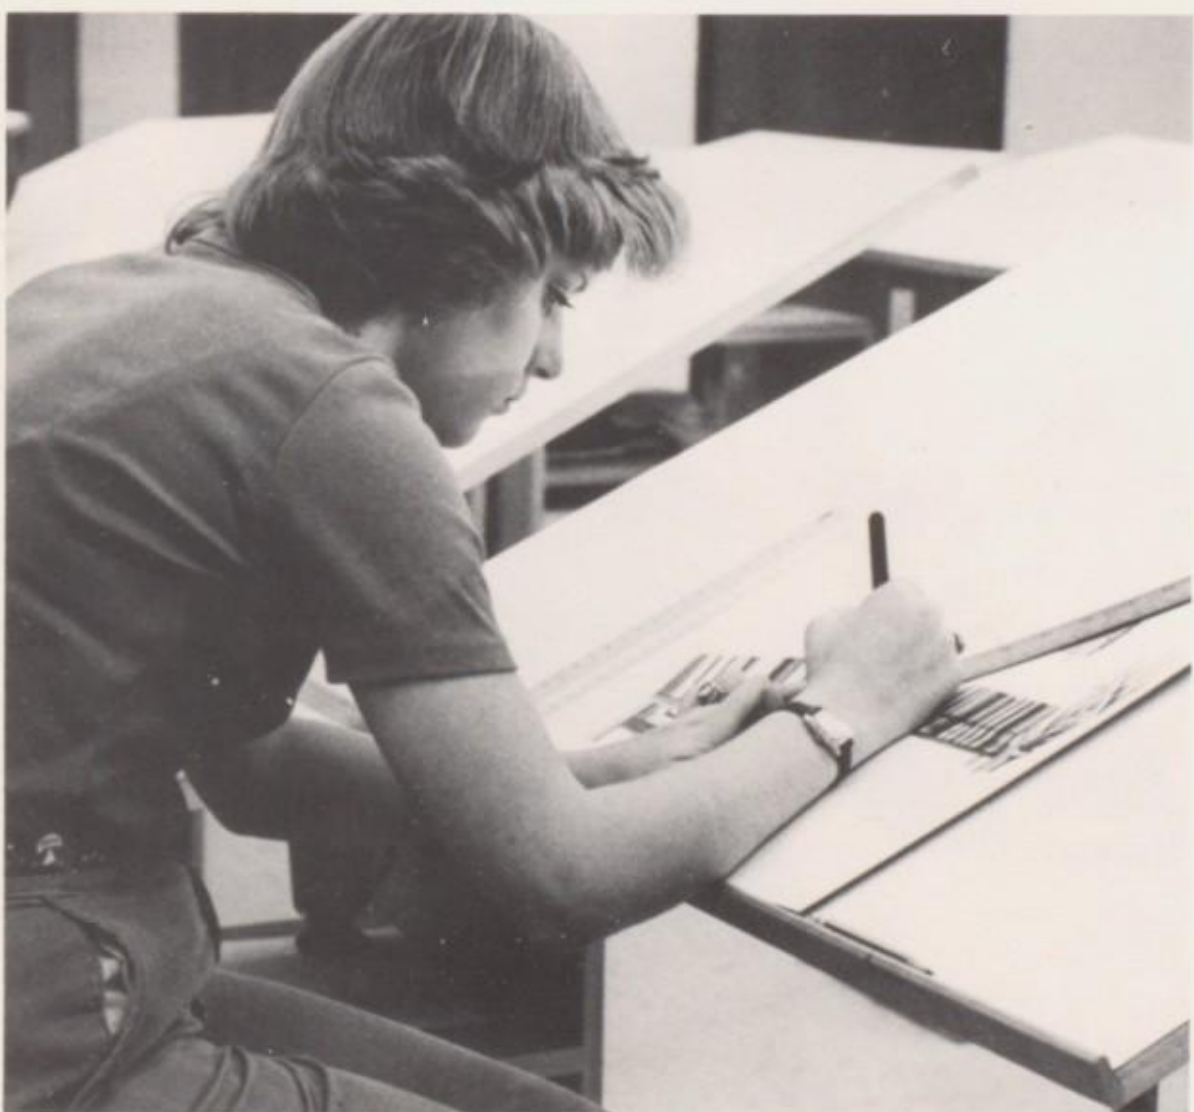

Seniors Mike Willaman, Steve Holstein, and Kevin Geiser take a minute out to discuss their plans for the next project. Students at the north campus often work on projects with a partner, so therefore, leave time for some conversation.

Seniors Jack Mercier and Dave Markle work on a project for woodshop at the South Campus. The woodshop students work on many projects throughout the year such as woodworking, finishing techniques, and various skills in designing furniture.

Diana Peters works on her interior designs in Media Communications I. Interior designing is one of the course in media communications. Students spend three hours a day in media class.

Terry Hinerman, a senior, works with the printing press at the North Campus.

Social Interests Involve Hoover Students

Two electives of the History courses are Sociology, and Psychology. In these classes seniors study about human relationships and social adjustments of today's society.

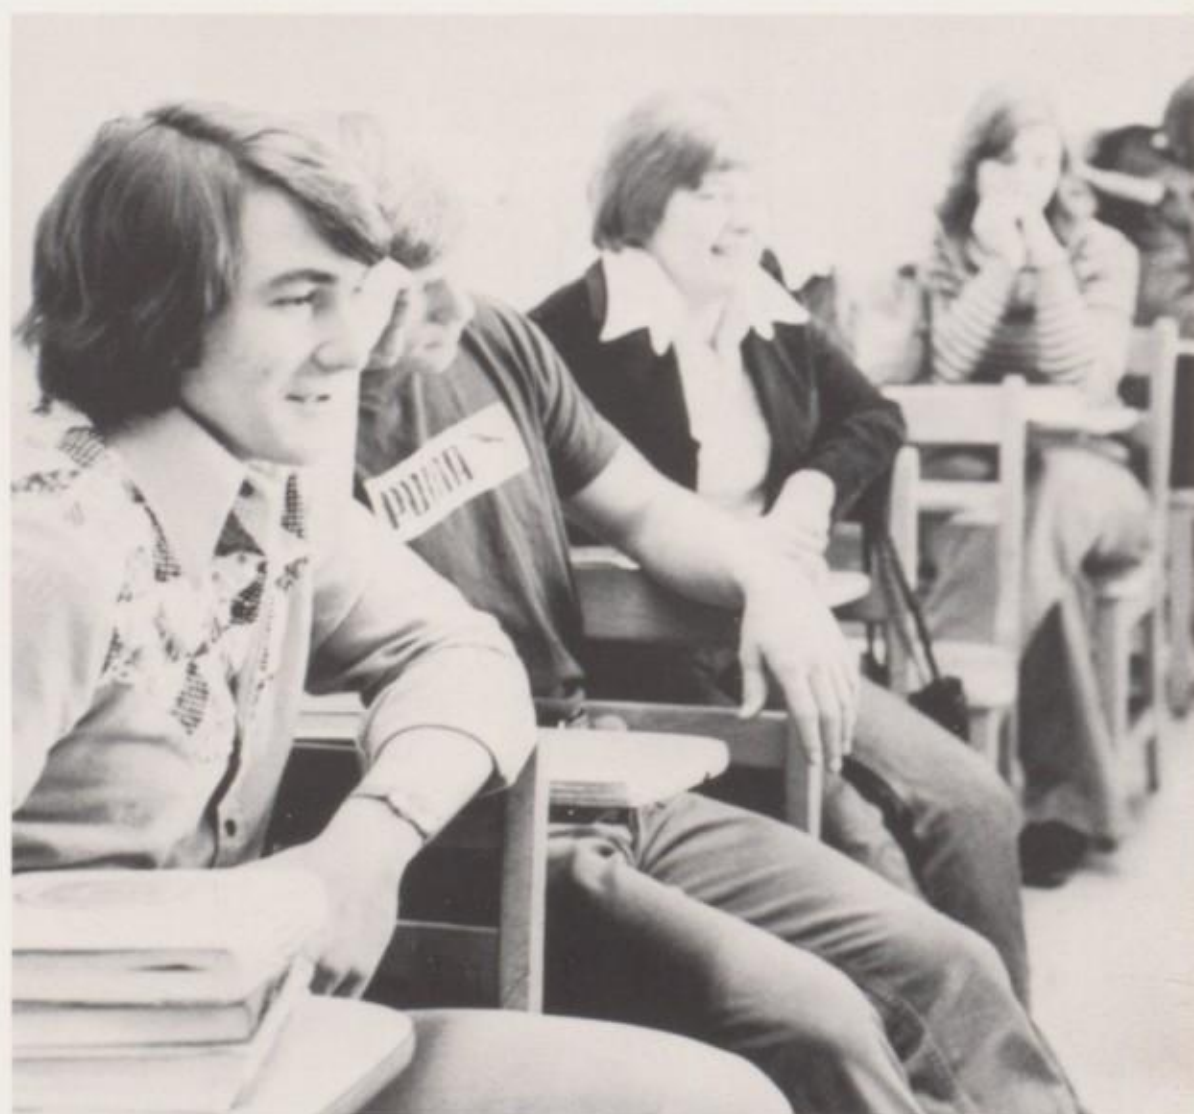

Mr. Kieffer is explaining the basic concepts of history while his class rapidly takes notes.

Senior Barb Kienzle tells an amusing story in her Psychology class as seniors Sue Lukens, Lori Mansfield, and Judy Kelly listen and laugh. In the social studies program at Hoover, psychology is a popular course among seniors.

Seniors Ken Sharkey and Joan Sherban seem to find something to smile about in psychology class, while Dan Shetler, also a senior, hangs his head in boredom. Psychology gives students the chance to become familiar with their peers.

During their morning Special Abilities class, sophomores Gene Roush, Karen Doyle, and Mike Driggers work together on homework from their other classes with help from Mrs. Daskocil.

Waiting to talk to Mrs. Lynn Daskocil at her desk is Mark Brozetti, a junior.

Donna Martin's facial expression is of joy and surprise in being caught off-guard by our camera.

Classes Produce Future Job Training And Experience

Seniors at Hoover who take the Diversified Cooperation Training Program can get both academic credits as well as work experience in skills not offered at Hoover. One program which does teach a skill is Engineering and Drafting. Rough drafts, and models, are included.

Standing by the audio visual projector is senior Jay Cerreta, Mr. Shoultys, and John Rome, also a senior. Mr.

Shoultys teaches in the Engineering and Drafting program at North Campus.

Senior Rod Boldt is busy working on a layout at the North Campus. The projects involve work with angles, lines and measurements. The course is offered several periods a day.

Seniors Dave Ladd, Terri Smith, and Lori Marker appear to be interested in the teacher co-ordinator's comments to the class. The Diversified Cooperative Training Class meets first and second periods at the North Campus.

The advisor-coordinator of Diversified Cooperative Training, Mr. Daryl Sowers, sits down as he lectures and comments to his students. Mr. Sowers instructs the students specific skills which will improve their chances for job placement.

Pausing to take a sip of water before continuing his talk on business policies is Mr. Edward Kotz from the Canton Area Better Business Bureau.

Hoover High School has long recognized that its educational program must be related to the actual and anticipated needs of society. Course offerings and goals and objectives for the various programs are designed for the student.

This 1976-77 school year brought the opening of the Hoover High School North Campus. This building contains various programs of training for almost any occupation. Vocational variations range from building maintenance and remodeling to diversified health occupations to food service and everything in between.

The world is full of the need for skilled workers. The vocational program is set up to meet those needs.

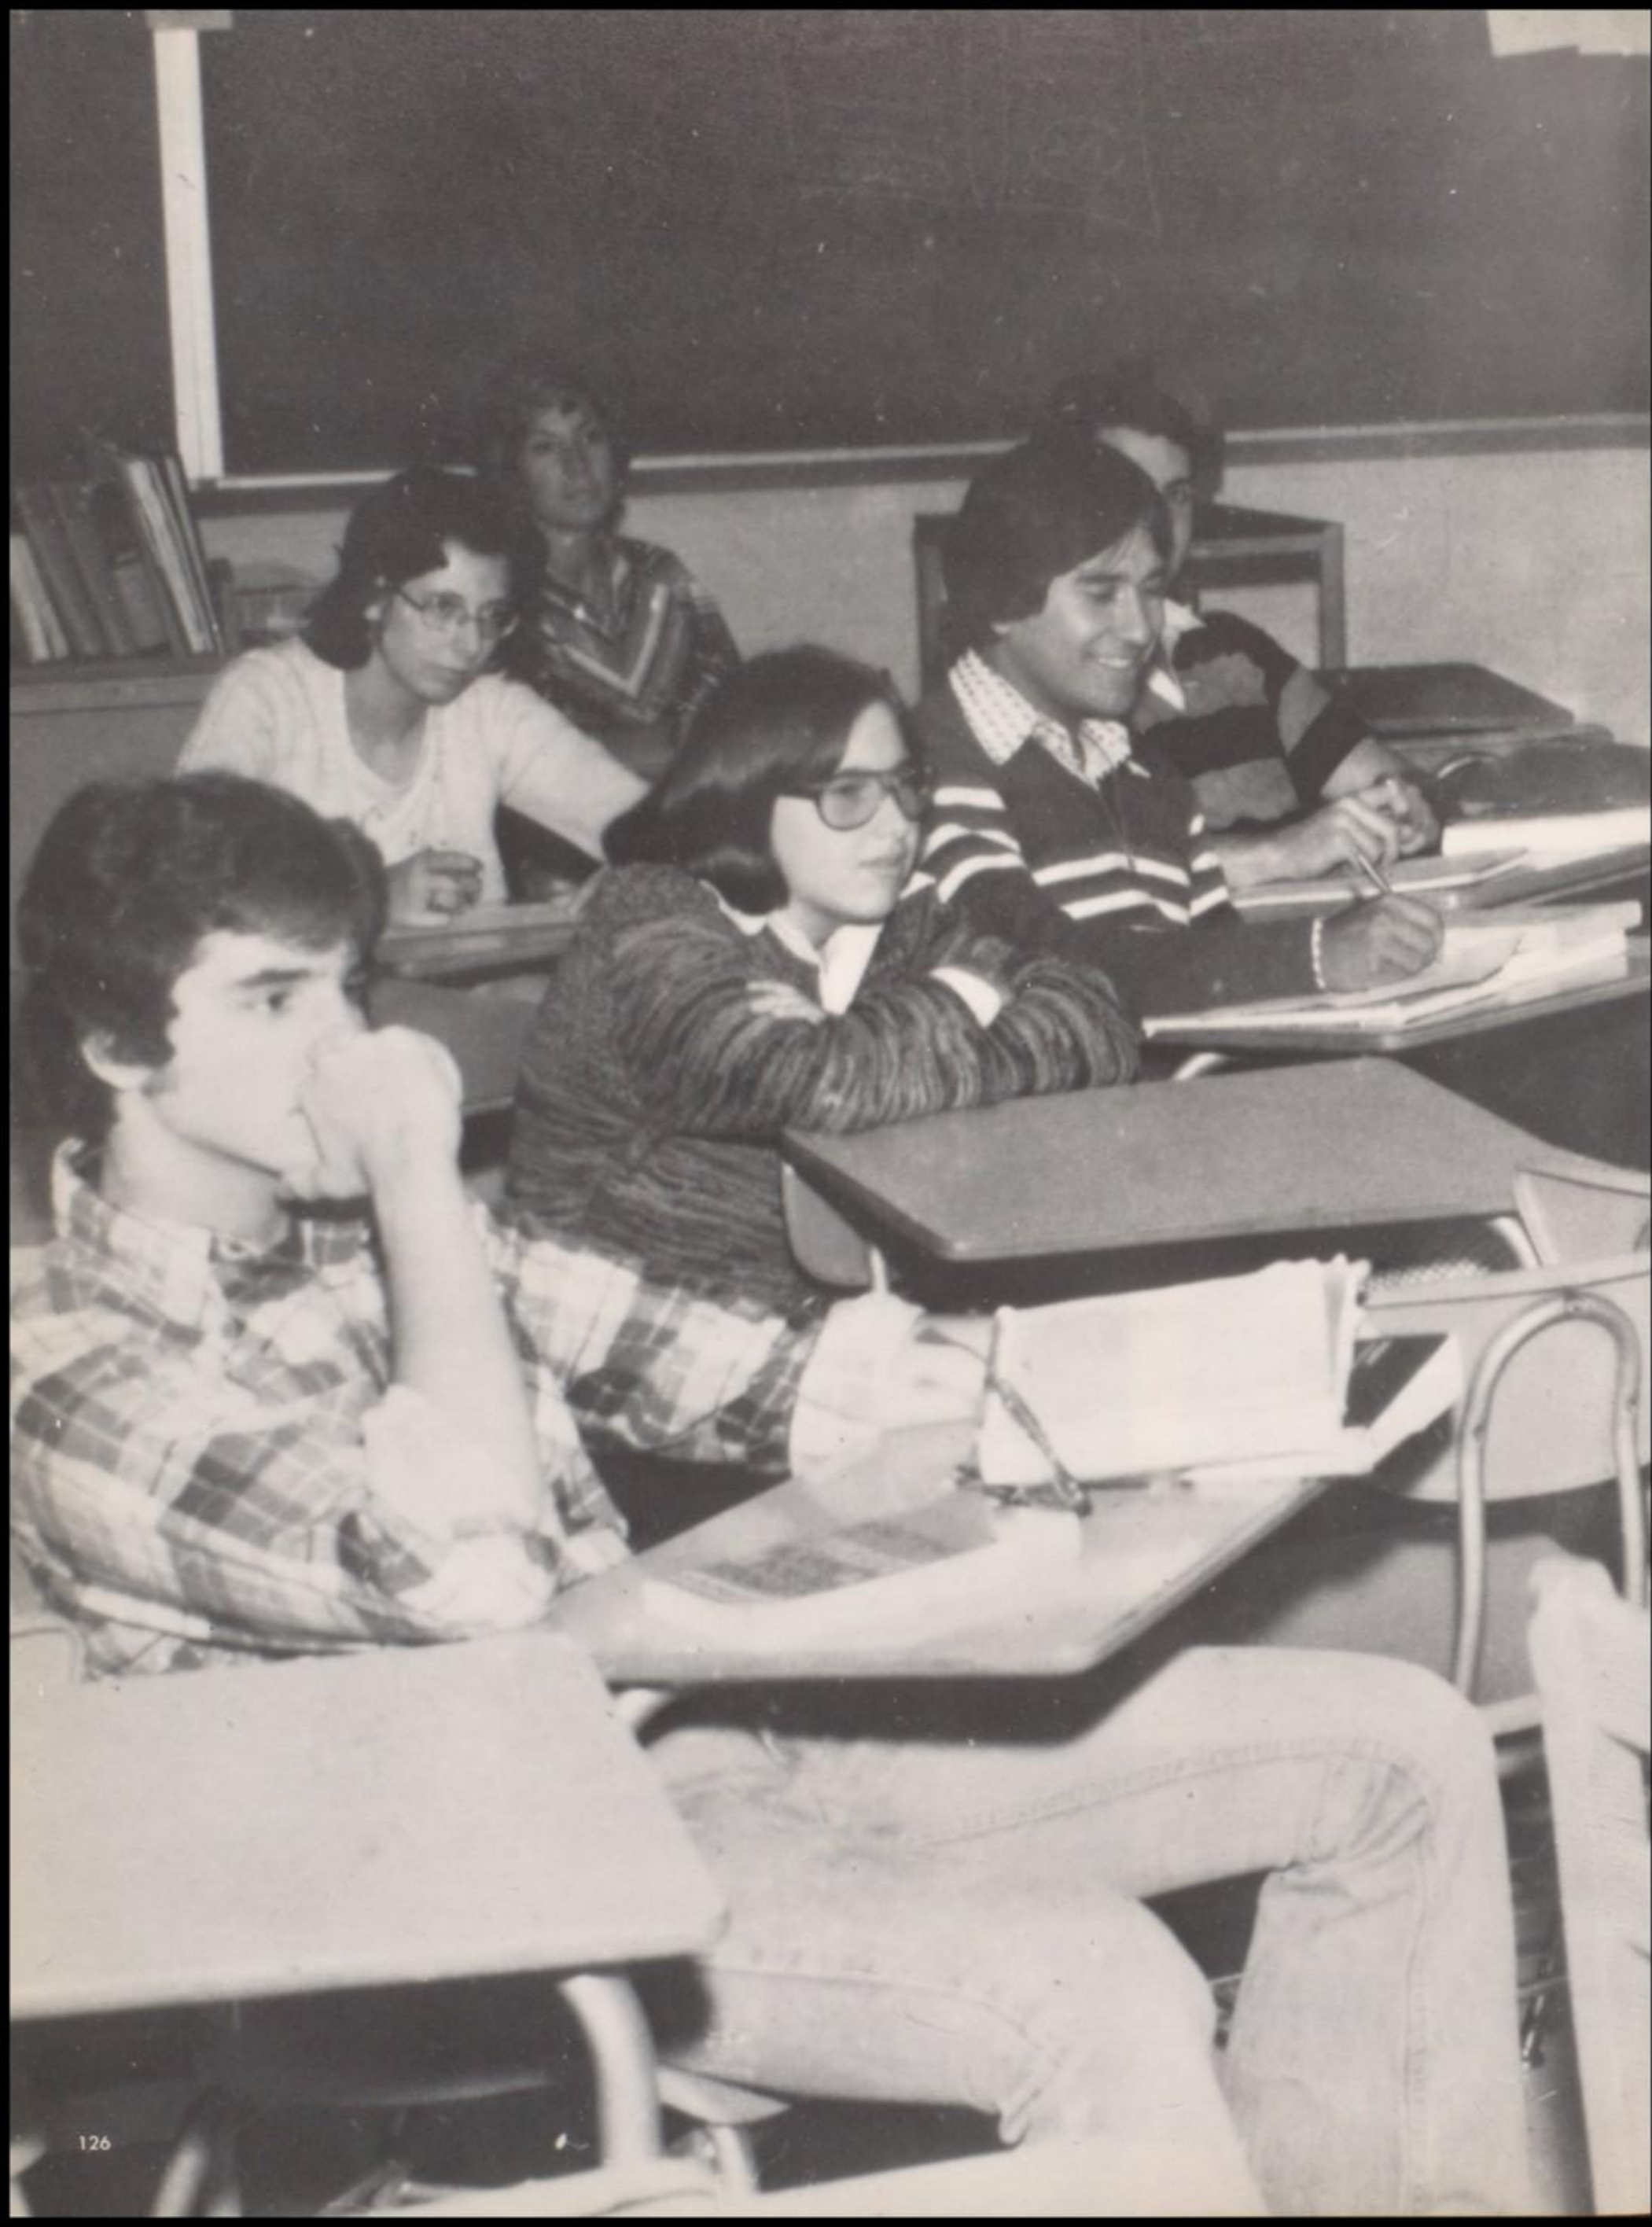

Many students wish to train for techniques and skills of an occupation and after they feel they have mastered these skills, they would like to apply them. At Hoover, they have the opportunity. Many of the vocational programs are set up to have one year of in school training and a second year of partial training, partial on the job under the instruction of a highly trained supervisor.

Hoover South Campus, offers a variety of courses for college-preparation. The high academic standards of many of the accelerated courses offer college bound students the opportunity to receive college credit.

Halley. Jim has played football since his freshman year.

Senior Paul Biedenbach takes time out from his electrical work to relax for a while.

When the bell rings, and the halls become crowded, some students go directly to their next class as Diane Esleburn and Tammi Foster are. Then, others stand and talk to their friends as Rick Middleton is doing.

During practice at Bob-O-Link Golf Course, junior Scott Tannehill is deciding how to putt the ball so it will go in the hole. Scott won many matches and was a great asset to the team this year. The varsity team had a very successful season. In the Federal League, with 21 wins and 4 losses, they had a 9-2 record and placed second.

Cindy Anderson, Lynn Bethel, and Bret Gully are writing diligently to finish their compositions. For each composition, students get two grades; one for their writing ability and the other for grammar. Therefore, students not only have to concentrate on their ideas but also on how they write them.

Sophomore Lauri Gratny looks up from her studies, while Anthony Herrick and Kathy Hetherington receive help from a teacher. The students are in Spanish class.

Foreign languages aid the students in understanding cultures from other parts of the world.

Physical education is a required activity for sophomores. Bob Kennedy practices his jumps over the horse. The phys. ed. class has been involved in working with gymnastics, and it includes the use of parallels, ropes, tumbling, and various exercises.

Sometimes school work tends to become a little boring, and Scott Thomas can't quite stay awake during one of his classes.

Home economics gives the opportunity for girls interested in that area to better understand the principles involved. Annette Alteri, Beth Kupka, Beth Pickles, and Pamela Hanes are busy cooking in the home ec room. The girls are assigned to their own "kitchens" and bake often.

It looks as if sophomore Bob Marquardt is definitely getting psyched about something. It seems that the guys get as excited over the games as the girls and cheerleaders.

Sitting beside him are his friends Don Pariso and Nick DeJacimo.

Faculty And Staff Excel

Many of our administrators have been intent upon furthering their study in their field throughout the past year. Projects in and out of school have kept them active and busy. Teachers spend plenty of time on school work other than in the classrooms. But teachers do find time naturally to do the things they enjoy the most. The Faculty here at Hoover High School has done their best at helping each student as much as possible in the field he or she is planning to go into for a career.

Mr. Bates turns his head briefly to catch our photographer in the act.

The tests have all been given and graded. The books are all put away. The teachers are gone. And so ends another school year. For the graduating seniors, their lives are beginning whether they are moving right into the business world or taking a detour through college. Who knows what the world has in store for them? For the juniors, there is only one more year, and they will be in this position too. The sophomores still have a way to go but will eventually reach this point also. Wherever you fall in this list, you have one thing in common and that is you attended Hoover High School in 1976-77. For all of us, there have been good memories and bad memories. It is our hope on the yearbook staff that when you look at this book it will bring back the good ones.
